One of the most anticipated Apple Stores to open in 2016 was the one located at New York City's Fifth Avenue and East 59th Street, located on the Lincoln Tunnel's eastern terminus. Back in September 2014, Apple opened its doors for the first time ever on the 4-acre complex. Back then, the store's most notable feature was its glass roof, but today, that glass roof is gone, replaced by an entirely new space that is both easier on the eyes and is far more functional than the former glass-covered space. There are plenty of new features in the store that are sure to make it easier for Apple fans to spend a few hours checking out the company's latest products. Some of the highlights include: A redesigned Genius Bar The largest Genius Bar ever seen in the Apple Store, it is over 12,000 square feet long and it is located in a quieter area of the store. The previous rectangular floorplan was removed and replaced with a U-shaped design that is about 1,500 square feet long. The store's redesigned Genius Bar features a row of six metal filing cabinets, each containing an iPad for reviewing customers' images and for conducting free wireless repairs. Customers can either go up to the front desk and have an agent from the Apple Store's Genius team to walk them through the steps needed to fix their technology or they can simply wait in one of the filing cabinets, which is not unlike what you find at Staples or a hardware store. Display of products This year, Apple expanded its section of its Genius Bar display to include more than 300 products. Some new products include the Apple Watch Series 2, the iPhone 7, and a redesigned MacBook Pro. That's not all; Apple is also expanding its sales of Macs and accessories. The Macs are being sold in four different

Is there any way of verifying the file being uploaded to the server? The maximum file I can upload is about 8MB, hence I'd like to know if my file is corrupt before hitting the server, is there any way of doing this? A: As Brian pointed out, there's nothing you can do about it. The only way to make sure the file is uploaded cleanly is to make sure that the upload has completed. There are many ways to do this, of course. One of the most popular ways to do it is to use PHP, which is an ideal choice, as the file is being uploaded into PHP, and many servers will require that file extensions be disallowed (I believe Apache is the only server that supports this now). The trick is to ensure that the path being used to save the file matches the path in which it was uploaded. Most servers are good at defaulting to the current working directory of the process, so you can use a simple `if(file_exists($_FILES['myfile']['tmp_name'])) {... }` test to verify that the file was uploaded. Q: When crawling the website, get the navigation properly and without a jump on the top of the page I'm using bbc.co.uk as an example website to explain my question. My problem is in this part of the website: You can see that when
