It logs every single keystroke typed by the users of the computer. Once a keylogger is running, you can take screenshots of any running process. The screenshot will contain the keylog and all other information about the process. It can also log messages, including alerts, over other protocols, such as WhatsApp, Twitter, Skype, IRC, Gmail, Http, and others. Additionally, the app comes with features for viewing and archiving of the captured screenshots, viewing captured passwords, injecting keylogs into other programs, and remote monitoring of the infected computer. It can be used for keylogging, remote monitoring, screenshot capturing, and delivering ads. Features An internet connection is required to function. If a user connects to a specific website, the app will load a web page with an image of the target website. Additionally, the app will collect information about the visitor's browsing activity, such as website visited, time spent on the website, referrer, etc. The app will also store the collected information to its database. App components Keystroke logging The keystroke logger feature of Revealer Keylogger is based on a proprietary method of keystroke logging. This method allows it to bypass a number of current and future anti-keylogging solutions. Screenshot capturing To ensure that all information about the user's activity is gathered, Revealer Keylogger will capture screenshots of any running process. Additionally, the app can take screenshots of specific websites. Remote monitoring

The app can also monitor any of the computer's IP address and shows you any changes that occurred on the computer, such as files created, deleted, the time of day, etc. Injection Revealer Keylogger can inject any text into any running process. This can be used for injecting keystrokes into other applications, such as using a keylogger to monitor email or banking accounts. Plugins

There are several plugins available for Revealer Keylogger, each having its own specific purpose. Some plugins can be purchased, while others must be downloaded from the app's website. Client-side Internet Explorer The Internet Explorer plugin allows you to capture any Internet Explorer webpage, or any webpages that use any of the security mechanisms such as SSL/TLS encryption or OLE Crypto. It does not log any data over other protocols. Yandex The Y 82157476af
